

Artist Biography

Minna Kokko (b. 1968) is a Finnish visual artist living and working in France.

After completing a Master's degree in international relations in France, she first undertook photography while working in communications at a multinational company in Paris. She trained in small and medium format photography at Gobelins l'Ecole de l'Image and in digital image processing at Pyramyd in Paris, as well as in creative digital photography at Luova in Helsinki.

Minna Kokko's work has been exhibited regularly in solo and group shows in France and Finland since 2008. She is currently featured by ArtDoc, an online magazine dedicated to the world of photography, as well as by Aralya, a French online media focusing on contemporary art. Several of her works are featured by Jaguar Arte, an online gallery specializing in art related to nature, as well as by Récurrence Photo, a designer of corporate photographic exhibitions. She also works actively within three different artist groups in the Paris region.
